

Expressive Arts Group

For Female Survivors of Childhood Sexual Abuse

This 12 session group offers survivors of childhood sexual abuse an opportunity to come together and explore their experiences through the arts. Activities will include painting, clay sculpture, collage, and other forms of creative expression.

The focus of this group is on self-expression and healing. No artistic experience or special skills are needed.

The group will be facilitated by a qualified expressive arts therapist and a clinical counselor, who are experienced in group process and working with survivors.

For further information or to register contact:
CCRC at 705-742-4258

This group is offered free of charge.

Funding has been provided by The Ministry of Community, Family and Children's Services